

New 'meet and greet' airport parking service

Tag Parking, founded by Kristian Andrews-Brown, aims to offer an “easy, fast and cost-efficient” option for airport parking through its meet and greet service.

Kristian, who has lived in Bournemouth for 30 years and previously worked in consultancy for the past decade, said he wanted to create a better alternative to airport parking.

“In 2023 I was speaking to my wife, as we do regular flights from Bournemouth and I have a background in land acquisition,” he said.

“I thought there must be a better way.”

However, soon after a competing business was launched offering discounted parking nearby, and Kristian put his plans on hold.

This summer he renewed his idea and secured sites to launch a ‘meet and greet’ service.

Passengers will be able to meet a Tag Parking driver at Bournemouth

Airport departures, who will inspect their vehicles before taking it to their secure site nearby.

Kristian said the parking sites have 24/7 CCTV and the company promises that customers’ vehicles will not leave the car park during the time of their stay.

Tag Parking states that vehicles will not exceed 15 miles while with them.

A driver will watch live flight data to determine if planes are delayed, before meeting customers with their vehicle outside the terminal.

“We will be waiting for passengers, not the other way round,” said Kristian.

Tag Parking is looking to become AMGO certified, which will provide extra reassurance to customers.

Its drivers will be mature and experienced, as well as being assessed and insured to operate vehicles.

“You have to have a really clean licence to work with us,” said Kristian.

He added: “We need to give people peace of mind that their vehicle is safe and they can trust us.”

Tag Parking now offers its meet and greet service across all available flights from Bournemouth Airport, including late-night departures, unlike some nearby competitors.

All drop-off fees are included in Tag Parking’s pricing, with parking available at up to 60% cheaper than official airport parking.

Kristian is hoping to expand the business in the future to surrounding airports regionally.
